SCOUT DIRECTOR TO CONFER WITH GROUPS IN SALEM

Ray Wyland Will Address
Four Meetings Here
January 31.

PLANS ARE MADE
BY CHAMBERLAIN

Meetings For Scout Chiefs,
Teachers, Ministers
And The Public.

Through the efforts of Lee R. Chamberlain, Columbiana county scout executive, arrangements have been completed for a series of meetings in Salem Thursday afternoon and evening, Jan. 31, to be addressed by Ray O. Wyland of New York city, director of the division of church relations, department of education of the Boy Scouts of America.

Mr. Wyland will speak under the auspices of the Northern Columbiana county council. He gives only ten days to this region, which includes Ohio, Pennsylvania and Kentucky, and his visit to Salem will be a stopover from one city to another.

Salem Program
The program for Salem follows: 3:15 p. m., ministers at Chamber of Commerce; 4:15 p. m., teachers at high school; 6 p. m., dinner and speech at Elks club; 8 p. m., scout leaders and scouts at Chamber of Commerce.

Arrangements have been completed in each of the towns under the control of the principals to bring their corps of teachers to the meetings. All Kiwanis and Rotary clubs are invited, members of council scout leaders and the public may attend any or all of the meetings.

No admission will be charged except tickets must be purchased in advance for the dinner at the Elks club. Mr. Wyland has been with the Boy Scouts of America approximately two years. He was a pastor for ten years, and has engaged in various types of social work, especially Americanization. He has naturalized between 15,000 and 16,000 foreigners and directed an educational lecture service which reached 1,700,000 people during the years 1920 and 1921. He has also spoken to a half million high school pupils and upper grades in the elementary school.

Meets Religious Leaders
For the last two years Mr. Wyland has been meeting with the ministers and religious leaders of America, endeavoring to interest them in scouting and especially to promote cooperation of the Scout program with the church program of religious education.

Writing about his proposed visit to Salem, Mr. Wyland says: "I hope to enter into the problems of your ministers as they meet with scouting and to help solve these problems, so that the Scout program, as delivered in their church, will be entirely satisfactory to them. It is my conception that scouting can do as much for the church by holding the boys to the church, as the church can do for scouting by giving the boys what they need in religious education."

POLICE NAB 358
LAW VIOLATORS

Gen. Butler Is Elated Over
12-Hour Results In Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Jan. 19.—With another day to go into the 48-hour onslaught against vice and crime, Brig. Gen. Smedley Butler's "army of cops" today was enjoying the fruits of victory.

In the first 12 hours of the new weekly two-day offensive the police set what is believed to be a record for arrests when they took into custody 358 alleged law violators.

This number included 149 persons arrested for disorderly conduct and drunkenness; 71 for violations of the liquor laws and 67 for infractions of the minor laws.

Gen. Butler was elated today over the "record" spirit of his cohorts. "Last night's work is an example of what the police can do and what they will do as long as I am director of public safety. And it proves the benefit of instilling a little pep in the boys and eliminating politics from the department."

SUPREME EFFORT MADE
TO PREVENT GENERAL
RAIL STRIKE IN BRITAIN

BULLETIN

London, Jan. 19.—Negotiations for averting the strike of locomotive engineers have been satisfactory, it was announced this afternoon. It is probable that the strike that was called for Sunday night may be called off.

London, Jan. 19.—A supreme effort was made today to avert the general strike of locomotive engineers called for tomorrow. Railway union leaders conferred with representatives of the companies seeking a preliminary basis on which further discussion could be based.

It is understood the engineers offered to postpone this strike if the managers—representatives of the railway—would defer the wage award of the national wage tribunal. The unit accepted the award as well as

COUZENS DEMANDS
MELLON TELL HOW MUCH HE'S WORTH

Senator Renews Challenge
To Debate Reduction
Of Sur-taxes.

Washington, Jan. 19.—A direct challenge to Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon to tell the public how much he is worth and how much he personally would save under the reduction of sur-taxes proposed in the Mellon tax reduction program was issued today by Senator James Couzens, Republican of Michigan.

Senator Couzens wrote Mr. Mellon a letter, declaring that he, Couzens, had revealed the extent of his wealth and the taxes he had paid, and he felt it was no more than fair that Mr. Mellon should do the same.

The Michigan senator also renewed his challenge to the secretary to engage in a public debate with him on the merits of the Mellon tax plan, proposing that they hire a hall and go fifty-fifty on expenses. Couzens originally made this offer a week ago, but it was ignored in the reply that Mr. Mellon sent to him.

In his letter today, Senator Couzens warmly disputed the figures and arguments advanced by Mr. Mellon in support of the Mellon program, and accused the secretary of making "absolute mis-statements."

Soup Showers O. K.

Cincinnati, Jan. 19.—Soup showers for women who attempt to flirt with other women's husbands were approved by Judge William D. Alexander in municipal court. Mrs. Margaret Breitenbach said she caught her husband in a cafe with another woman and showered her with soup.

Salem Klan Women

A class of 25 was initiated at a meeting of the Ku Klux Klan women Friday evening at the hall, Main st., at which the county organizer was present. There were visitors from East Liverpool, Lisbon and Canton.

The Salem organization expects to get its charter the last of this month. Plans are being made for a social for the members and their friends in the near future.

PERMIT MEXICAN

Acting Governor's Decision
Reversed, State Department
Announces.

OBREGON SUPPORT

Merits Of Mexican Revolt
Not Known To Him But He Hits Policy.

Washington, Jan. 19.—Mexican federal troops will be permitted to pass through the state of Texas at El Paso, the state department announced today.

The decision of Acting Gov. Davidson of Texas not to permit the troops to pass through has been reversed and plans have been worked out so that the Mexican troops will pass over only a small part of Texas territory in their trip through the United States.

Johnson Opposes Policy
Chicago, Jan. 19.—Senator Hiram Johnson of California, was on record today strongly against President Coolidge's support of Obregon.

"Our policy expressed in so many words is that the United States frowns on revolutions," Senator Johnson told the audience that heard his speech last night opening his Illinois campaign.

"The merits of the contest raging in Mexico, are not known to me but I have no hesitation in saying that the action of the United States is immoral and illegal."

"Such is a departure from the policy that America has ever pursued. What an anomalous and paradoxical condition is ours today."

"The United States is furnishing arms to Obregon to fight revolution there," Johnson said. "It is done, as stated by the secretary of state, to maintain that stability of order in the neighboring republic."

"The United States now says to the people of the continent—if you dare fight for what you may deem to be right, if you raise your hand against oppression or wrong, the most powerful nation in the world will come to the aid of those you think are oppressors and maintain existing power."

Fresh Supplies Sent
Mexico City, Jan. 19.—Fresh supplies of munitions have been sent the federal land batteries at Miramar near the mouth of the Panuco river defending the port of Tampico.

The federal commandant sent word that it would be impossible for the rebel gunboats blockading Tampico to pass into the river to land troops.

Sixteen tankers and merchant ships passed in and out of Tampico harbor Friday without molestation from the blockading flotilla, indicating that the rebels were either unwilling or afraid to enforce the blockade effectively.

To Protect Americans
Washington, Jan. 19.—Behind a wall of official silence the United States government was moving today to aid the Obregon government in suppressing the De La Huerta revolution and to insure the protection of American lives, property and commerce in the Mexican trouble zone.

While confirmation of reported naval movements was still withheld, it is understood that orders are pending, if they have not been actually sent out, for the detachment of a small naval force and the coardest fleet in Pan-American waters will be sent to the region of Tampico, where De La Huerta's two gunboats have been molesting foreign shipping and attempting to blockade the ports.

Woman And Her Three Children Die In Fire.
Husband Near Death

Ridgeway, Pa., Jan. 19.—A mother and her three children were burned to death in a fire which destroyed their home at Simmesburg, near here, today. The father is dying, physicians say, in a local hospital after attempting to rescue members of his family.

The victims are Mrs. Jacob Smith, 25; daughter, aged 5, and two sons, aged four and one.

An overheated stove is believed to have caused the blaze.

Winchester, Va., Jan. 19.—More than a score of private homes in Winchester were turned into emergency hospitals today to care for the 31 bed-ridden patients of the Winchester Memorial hospital, which was destroyed by fire last night with a loss of $125,000.

The patients were mostly women, including some with new-born babies and several who had been operated on a few hours before the hospital building was ablaze. There were no casualties.

WOMAN ACCUSED OF HUSBAND'S MURDER

Mrs. Mathilda S. Khouri

Mrs. Mathilda S. Khouri of Dorchester, Mass., is sought by the police on the charge of murdering her husband, Elias J. Khouri. A former sweetheart has confessed that she told him she shot her husband to death. At first his death was ascribed to suicide.

NO SENSATIONS
IN STEUBENVILLE
PROBE REPORT

Columbus, Jan. 19.—Announcement was made today by Attorney General Crabbie that he has not yet completed his reports to be submitted to Gov. Donahay dealing with the recent investigation by Crabbie's special representatives into charges of laxity of law enforcement on the part of Steubenville officials.

The attorney general said his report will contain nothing of a sensational nature. He said he expected he will complete it in time to hand to the governor Monday, when it will be made public.

Philadelphia, Jan. 19.—Still protesting his innocence and charging she is a victim of a "frame-up" by parties who "won't let her live straight," Myrtle Atkinson, 31, of Ironton, O., a nurse in a private hospital here, today was awaiting a hearing on a charge of implication in the murder of Thomas Glynn, a Massillon, O., policeman, three years ago.

"It's all a frame-up," she declared hysterically after a warrant had been read to her at the bedside of a patient. "I wouldn't go back so they trump up this charge to force me to go back and testify against my friends. I was a bad woman, out there and got mixed up in this mess. Now they won't let me alone, even though I am trying to live straight, I'll go back—but I'll never try to be good again."

Claude Osterholt, former Ohio policeman is now awaiting trial for Glynn's murder as a result of an alleged deathbed confession of Alexander Prillas, "king of the underworld" that he had hired Osterholt to slay Glynn.

Mrs. Atkinson declares he is innocent.

Woman Is Arrested
On Loitering Charge

Ira McClutcheon, residence unknown, is the first woman to be a "guest" of the city in 1924. She was arrested at 10 p. m. Friday by Officer Gray and Kirkbride for loitering at the Pennsylvania station.

The officers took the woman to city prison after she had been loitering at the station for several nights. She would not give her address. She will be arraigned before Mayor J. R. Schaeffer Saturday afternoon.

PLANT WILL NEED
400 MORE MEN IN
NEXT SIXTY DAYS

Salem's Largest Plant Did
Record Business In 1923 Says Gibson.

BOATS SECONDARY
TO MOTOR PARTS

Statuary And Architectural Work Still Important Part Of Business.

Note—With this optimistic announcement by the Mullins Body Corp., The News is presenting the first of a series of industrial stories in which it is purposed to acquaint the readers with the diversified products of Salem manufacturing plants.—The Editor.

By H. P. BRAMAN

The Mullins Body Corporation, now running about 65 per cent capacity and employing about 750 persons, including office employees, will soon add between 300 and 400 men to its force.

That statement was made by the writer by President C. C. Gibson, who is also authority for the fact that the corporation did an aggregate business last year of approximately $3,500,000, the greatest year in history.

With the addition of 200 to 400 employees to the payroll in the next 60 days the corporation will be at the beginning of what Mr. Gibson characterizes as "what we believe will be our greatest year. We anticipate large orders and as soon as we receive them we will add between 300 and 400 men."

Largest Plant In City
Mullins, as the plant is known to everyone in Salem, is the city's largest industrial plant. It occupies 10 buildings, and these buildings have an aggregate floor space of 35,000 square feet. The addition finished during the war period on the south side of the property is 500 feet long and 100 feet wide.

More than 50 years ago Kittredge Cornace & Ornamental Co., started the work of making carneses and statuary. This plant was purchased by a partnership of Bakewell and Mullins in 1872. W. H. Mullins purchased the interest of Mr. Bakewell and continued the business, and in 1905 with others incorporated as the W. H. Mullins Co., under Ohio laws. Mr. Mullins remained as president until last year when C. C. Gibson took the place of a manufacturer's place, and he became chairman of the board. The corporation was formed under New York laws in 1919 for $1,000,000.

Statuary, architectural work and sheet metal work were the products of the plant in the early days. In 1905 the plant started the manufacture of steel boats, canoes and launches in addition to the other work. The following year the manufacture of pressed steel automobile bodies, fenders and parts was begun.

Today the greatest part of the nearly four million dollar business is in the pressed steel stampings of bodies and other automobile parts. When you step into your car for a spin you are probably stepping on a Mullins fender, the engine is under

WILL BE SELECTED

County Auditor Asks All
Advisory Boards To Send Six Names.

Within the next fortnight, County Auditor C. E. Hamilton will announce the names of those selected to reappraise property and real estate in Columbiana county.

The plan designed by Mr. Hamilton to select appraisers practically leaves the selection of such men to the residents of the different taxing districts of the county, or their selected representatives—the advisory boards.

Every advisory board in the cities and townships and villages has been asked to file with the county auditor the names of six men to serve as appraisers. From this list will be selected the appraisers. It is recalled that the residents of the different cities and townships selected their own advisory boards, and the first service these boards will perform will be the suggestion of names for assessors.

Actual work of reappraising will not get under way until February.

County Game Boards
Will Meet In Lisbon

The governing boards of each branch of the Columbiana County Fish and Game association will meet at the court house in Lisbon at 8 p. m. Monday to transact important business.

John L. King, Salem, president of the association, called the meeting to discuss several measures sponsored by the Salem branch, and for any other business.

The proposed new hunting law, sponsored by the Salem branch, will be the most important matter up.

RADIO

(Edited by G. Douglas Wardrop, Editor of Radio Merchandising)

The honeycomb and similar types of concentrated inductances are excellent pieces of apparatus, but the available means of handling them is crude at the best, due to their dimensions and shape. Special difficulty is encountered when it is desired to mount them permanently back of a panel and manipulate the coupling and the inductance quantities from the front by means of switches and knobs.

A method is here shown where the coils are mounted upon a block as a unit, which unit, as a whole, can be inserted or taken out of the receiver cabinet by loosening two screws in the backboard of the receiver cabinet. Generally, however, the unit with sufficient size coils for a given range are left intact within the receiver.

Here the coils are mounted on the block, the center one permanently at-spring of coiled wire tends to pull the outer coils downward against the cam which is quickly and easily cut from solid hard rubber or from a built-up form from sheet dielectric material.

The cam is firmly attached to the shaft of the knob which protrudes through the panel to the front.

When it is desired to change the unit of inductance it is not necessary to disturb the cams and it is only necessary to remove the screws which hold the block.

A scheme adopted in constructing a receiver employed coils of fixed inductance for a three-coil receiver of the form illustrated in Fig. 2. The coils were wound in such sizes that they fit closely within each other, at least two within the outer coil. The same system can be adopted for the making of radio frequency transformers by the novice who has no data on hand for the correct proportions of the constants.

tached in a vertical position with regard to the holding block and securely held in place by a spring clip of brass, while the two outer coils are mounted on a strip of fiber attached to the block by small hinges to permit their swinging motion at such times as the inductive relation with the center coil is desired to be changed. A very light

Pancake Inductance

Coils Easy to Make

Experimenters will be interested in the following description of how to make a novel set of pancake inductance coils, which are easily constructed and do good work.

The coils can be arranged on plugs similar to those used on spider-web coils or connected with flexible leads.

Two perfectly flat surfaces of wood or sheet metal for a form as shown in Fig. 1 are bound together with a bolt having two outside washers for holding free ends of oil muslin and a spacer washer the thickness of the wire to be used.

Thirty turns are wound in pancake (helix) form of No. 22 S. C. C. wire. Half-inch strips of oil muslin are arranged as shown in Fig. 2, and as wire is wound, sticks to muslin which had previously been coated with heavy shellac. When allowed to dry and removed from form the coil is coated with shellac and again allowed to dry, presenting a rigid article.

Two such coils are used, one as a primary in the antenna circuit with a variable condenser in series and the other (secondary) in the grid circuit.

The two coils when laid flat upon the table, one on the other, can be made to produce any degree of coupling by sliding horizontally.

Later a third coil of similar construction, but of fewer turns, is connected in the plate circuit for regeneration.

With 50 feet of lamp cord laid on hallway floor as an antenna in conjunction with a detector tube and one stage of amplification, excellent results are obtained.

Such coils can also be used as primary and secondary of radio-frequency transformers. The ratio of turns may be made 2 to 1 and the proper number of turns wound so as to cover any desired band of wave-length.

Ground Clamps Made

From Shade Holder

A ground clamp which serves its purpose very well can be made from an ordinary electric light shade holder. Cut off close to the inner circle all of the braces which connect the two circles, leaving one which is cut off close to the outer circle and then bend back on itself to form a soldering lug. The outer circle is then discarded. To attach, solder the ground wire in the lug, take the screw out of the clamp, slip the clamp over the ground pipe, insert the screws and tighten. Be sure that the ground pipe is thoroughly cleaned and scraped.

Bottle Neck Will Make Good Small Insulator

It is easy enough to make any quantity of small glass insulators for your lead-in wire at practically no cost at all in the following manner: Remove the necks of small vials, such as vanilla or lemon extract come in, and put them on a nail and fiber washer. The latter, of course, is used to keep the insulator from slipping off the nail. Saturate a cotton string with kerosene and tie it around the neck of the bottle where it is to be cut off. Light the string and in burning the string it heats the bottle neck. When the fire is burned out, simply plunge the bottle into cold water and then tap the bottle lightly and your insulator will fall right off, cut neatly where you tied your string.

Find Way to Obviate Annoying Inductance

Those of us who have reached the half-century mark will remember when in the early days of the telephone we used to hear several parties talking at the same time on one pair of wires. In addition to this, noises were heard on the lines like the twittering of birds and the frying of eggs. This was called "cross-talk."

It was a great mystery for some time but was finally traced by experts to what is called inductance. If you place several wires in a cable, all well insulated, and send a current of electricity through one of them, it by some mysterious process sets up a sort of sympathetic current in one or more of the other wires.

The engineers of the telephone companies discovered several ways to counterbalance this inductance. One is by twisting the wires into pairs. Another is to "load" the wires by adding sufficient inductance, at mathematical points, to balance that doing the mischief.

Inductance is now having its effect upon radio in neighborhoods where high potential electric currents run. Radio engineers, however, claim to have found a means of remedying it.

May Inject Man's Evolution Into Presidential Issues

Gainesville, Fla., Jan. 19.—Evolution of man—what William Jennings Bryan scornfully terms that "monkey business"—as a potent issue in a presidential campaign.

This loomed as a bare possibility today when Dr. A. A. Murphree, Bryan's selection for president, bitterly denounced the teaching of evolution in schools, colleges and universities over the United States. Dr. Murphree is president of the University of Florida.

"I absolutely refuse to believe that I sprang from a monkey," he declared bluntly, "and evolution is far too dangerous a subject to teach young college students while their minds are in that plastic stage. They might be greatly influenced by this hypothesis, thereby having their faith in the eternal truth of the Divine creation shaken."

"The theory was advanced to account for the presence of man on earth; nothing else. It most certainly has no place in college courses and lectures."

BANDITRY BECOMES GENERAL

French Writer Laments Recent Crime Wave That Has Swept Over France.

Violent crimes are not the monopoly of American gunmen and Barcelona pistoleros.

Figaro (Paris) laments the crime wave that has swept over France recently. Bandits robbed the pay clerks of the Marseilles street railways, killing one and wounding another in broad daylight, and disappearing with 142,000 francs. Another group of bandits slugged and robbed a Paris jeweler in his shop, in broad daylight, when other customers were in the store. A list of similar violent crimes follows. The author comments:

"These robberies and murders, and the criminal bands that commit them, invite certain observations. The first is that their number and their brutality no longer shock the public. Before the war, such criminal gangs as la bande Bonnot were thought extraordinary; today they hardly attract remark."

"We consider braiding jewelers, robbing banks, robbing postoffices, and mysterious murders in the same matter-of-fact way that we regard motor car accidents. They seem to be becoming part of the customs of the time."

Two Million Lepers. It is estimated that there are about 2,000,000 lepers in the world, half of whom are in China. The disease appears to be spreading among the natives of Central Africa, but is receding where modern methods of control and cure have been undertaken on any large scale. Science confirms the theory as old as Bible times that the disease is spread by infection, although prolonged exposure to the disease is necessary, and that segregation is one of the most effective methods of treatment. Definite cures in many cases have followed the injection into the veins of the active principle of chaulmoogra oil, and it is now being used on an increasing scale. Similar preparations have also been made recently from olive and from linseed oils. As an illustration of what modern sanitation and segregation of cases will accomplish, it is said the number of cases in Norway has been reduced from 2,833 to 149 in sixty years.

Dr. Murphree said he had never talked with his political sponsor, the Commoner, on the subject but characterized Bryan as "one of the best posted and most devout Christian gentlemen in America—and" he added, further, "true friend to the Democratic party."

On other questions, Dr. Murphree was found to be of practically the same opinion as Col. Bryan. He drew no half-way marks as far as prohibition is concerned but came out flat-footed for a "dry nation," and "rigid enforcement of the 18th amendment." He has taken an active part in fighting wet forces over Florida.

The league of nations, he advocated with reservations.

"I consider it absolutely within the province of the United States government to exercise its own judgment in all matters after thorough investigation of the question at issue," he said. "The destiny of America must ever be decided by the American people."

Congress Now Faces Sea Of Investigation

Washington, Jan. 19.—A sea of investigation has been opened up by the passage of the Reed resolution authorizing investigation of all sorts of propaganda, members of congress admitted.

There are no limits to how far the committees will go.

Search is to be made for all persons who "can influence congress one way or another."

The investigation is aimed primarily at "propaganda in favor of the Bok peace plan," the propaganda in favor of the Mellon tax plan and propaganda against the soldiers' bonus.

London—The Egyptian cabinet has resigned, according to a Cairo dispatch.

BEFORE BABIES WERE BORN

Mrs. Oswald Benefited by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Girardville, Pa.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before my last two babies came. It keeps me in perfect health and I am on my feet getting meals and doing all my housework until an hour before the baby is born. A friend told me to take it and I have used ten bottles since I heard about it. I recommend the Vegetable Compound whenever I can. Just yesterday a friend was telling me how miserable she felt, and I said, 'If you start taking Lydia E. Pinkham's you will feel fine.' Now she is taking it."—Mrs. P. J. OSWALD, JR., 406 W. Ogden St., Girardville, Pa.

Mrs. Nicola Paluzzi Says Mishawaka, Indiana.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for weakness before my babies were born. I was weak and tired out all the time and it helped me. When I had inward inflammation the doctor treated me, but it did not help me, so I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash and it helped me right away. ## MEXICO CHILDREN WORK HARD Lower Classes Begin Their Duties Early; Women Very Faithful to Their Husbands.

The children of the lower class Mexicans are brought up to work, and work hard, almost from birth. The mother's first child is carried on her back, Indian-like, and the parent does her work without any apparent inconvenience. By the time the second offspring arrives the mother's household duties have so increased that she must be free as far as possible from the care of her children, says the Detroit News. The first-born is thereupon charged with the care of the little brother or sister, and it is quite the rule to see some tiny tot of three years, or less, valiantly carrying around the younger member of the family.

These women have no thought except for daily round. They are fidelity personified, and their lord and master's word is law. The male of this type is jealous in the extreme, but he rules by inspiring fear, and will leave his spouse whenever he thinks fit, knowing full well that she will not dare to offend the moral law, or disobey him in the slightest degree in his absence.

Seasickness a Thing of the Past.
The day when a cross-channel journey or a long voyage will become a real delight rather than (to many) a distressingly trying discomfort is at hand, comments the Westminster Gazette.

Engineering has accomplished this by the perfection of what is known as the gyroscopic stabilizer, the first of which, in this country, has been constructed by the Metropolitan Vickers Electrical company at their Trafford Park works, Manchester. The manner in which the gyroscopic stabilizer is a ship is simple. If a wave comes along and seeks to push the ship over in one direction the gyroscopic stabilizer pushes it back, exerting an equal force directly opposite to that of the wave.

Entitled to Peace.
"This is the arena of the Colosseum," announced the tourist, giving a little lecture for the benefit of his wife. "From your grim portals the lions entered. Yonder sat Alexander the Great to supervise the combats."
"Don't display your ignorance," retorted his better half. "Alexander the Great was never in Rome."
"He was."

"He was not."
The husband subsided.
"All right, my dear, I won't dispute you. This arena has seen enough battles."

OHIO MINERS ASK BIG WAGE BOOST

Six-hour Day And Five-day Week Also Included In Their Demands.

Columbus, Jan. 19.—United Mine Workers of Ohio turned deaf ears to pleas that they refrain from demanding an increase in wages at the closing session of their convention here Friday.

In formulating wage scale recommendations for petition to the international convention at Indianapolis, the miners approved conditions which in effect contemplate a 25 per cent increase, in addition to time and a half for overtime and double time for Sundays and holidays, work previously paid for on a straight time basis. The wage demands call for a six-hour day and a five-day week instead of a six-day week, with a 25 per cent increase for tonnage, yardage and dead work, to equalize compensation. This demand would increase the tonnage rate from 94 cents to $1.17½ and day work from 93½ cents to $1.25 per hour.

In addition delegates disregarded pleas of the wage scale committee on the subject of the "penalty" clause in the present contract, adopting a demand for the removal of this provision by an almost unanimous vote.

The "penalty" clause was put into general effect during the war period, and provides for fines for miners participating in "outlaw" strikes and for operators declaring "lockouts" in violation of contract.

MULLINS PREPARES FOR RECORD YEAR

A Mullins hood, the eponym is a Salem manufacture by Mullins and these other parts also are made here in Mullins plant.

What Plant Manufactures
Radiator shells, doors, frames, sides, floors, tops for enclosed cars and in fact almost everything that enters into an automobile body. To more than convince you that you are riding in a Mullins car when you ride to the office in the morning or take a joy ride, here is a list of the cars for which all or part of the bodies are made:

Buick, Nash, Lincoln, Columbia, Peerless, Chrysler, Lafayette, Jordan, Franklin, Chandler, Stearns, Hupp, Kickenbacker, Willis, Saint Claire, Pierce Arrow, Cadillac, Cunningham, Locomobile, Packard and Winton embracing medium and high priced motor cars.

There are also made for custom body manufacturers the steel framework on which is put the finish.

All kinds of stampings are turned out. The number is large. The miscellaneous assortment of steel stampings, however, is a considerable part of the business.

Pressed steel boats are secondary in volume. Row boats and motor launches made by Mullins are all over the world. In India, in London, in China or in Cleveland we find Mullins rowboats and motor launches tied up at the docks of rivers and lakes. The fame of Mullins' steel boats is known in every corner of the globe and a large amount of business each year is with foreign countries.

One of the products that brought fame to Mullins was the canoe which is not made anymore by the plant. The production is put into other goods now.

Still Make Bronze Work
Although not running at full capacity now the boat works will soon be going at top speed in anticipation of summer orders.

One line of goods is manufactured which many Salem folk believed had long since been stopped, namely the manufacture of statuary and architectural work, mostly all of bronze. There is still a big demand for this line and nearly every public building in the city has some piece of Mullins statuary or architectural effects.

The corporation is growing every day, Mr. Gibson says. More and varied steel stampings are being turned out and the number of cars for which bodies are made is steadily increasing. The hull at present is due to the auto season being in the "calms" before the trade gets brisk in February and March.

"We will be adding men from time to time to our working force but we cannot find enough places for them to live in Salem and I certainly hope the building boom continues."

That sums up President Gibson's idea of what is needed to aid the industrial growth of not only his company but of others as well.

TAX MEASURE MAY BE LONG DELAYED

DEBATE IN THE SENATE OVER SURTAXES IS LIKELY TO FORCE COMPROMISES.

By EDWARD B. CLARK

Washington, Jan. 18.—Indications are that the country must wait until well into February before it learns with any degree of definiteness how much its tax bill is to be cut in the future.

It does not seem at all likely that congress will be able even to formulate amendments to the revenue act for some time to come. Many members, many minds. Of course the fight will come between the two schools, one of which believes that the cutting of surtaxes is a crime and the other of which believes that such a cutting will release money for industrial purposes and will benefit the people much more than they would benefit through the receipt by the Treasury department of surtaxes as at present imposed.

Nobody in congress is opposed to the cutting of the income tax percentages which are being paid by wage and salary earners, who as for single men, make more than $1,000 a year, and as for married men make more than $2,000 a year. Everybody in congress desires or pretends to desire that the man of comparatively small income shall be relieved of a part of his burdens. There are certain elements in congress, however, which insist, as they put it, that wealth shall continue to be taxed at a high rate.

It is an old story, of course, but it may be said that the members of congress who think that surtaxes should be cut are insistent in statement of belief that much money which otherwise would be put into taxes is now invested in tax-exempt securities. This money, they say, if no longer taxed would be put into industries, give employment to men and help to reduce the cost of living.

Senate Debate May Be Long.

It is certain now that some tax reduction plan will be put through congress, but it may be the summer's work will be stifling the city of Washington before the senate gets through with discussion of the matter. It is understood that all but about ten of the Republicans in the senate are satisfied with the Mellon tax reduction plan as proposed, that is, satisfied to put it through as it stands, even if they do not entirely agree to the legislative wisdom of attempting to legislate on taxes at this time.

The few Republicans in the senate who will fight the Mellon plan, if it shall come over from the house of representatives in the form proposed by the secretary of the treasury, are opponents of reduction of surtaxes. Ten senators can keep a debate running for months if they are so inclined. So long as any man wants to talk on the subject, the senate cannot come to a vote. So it is that compromises may be forced in the senate in order to secure a vote at all, compromises which may change the whole face of the legislation.

Naturally the Republican majority desires to put tax reduction through as a measure approved by all of the Republicans, but it is becoming evident that this cannot be done. The Democratic party is just as anxious to support tax reduction as is the Republican party. The chances are that when the bill is put to a vote in the senate the majority of the Democrats will vote "Aye."

The Treasury department has many expert accountants in its service. They unquestionably were put to work to supply the material for the outlining of the Mellon plan. Congress is doing a lot of figuring on its own account, but whether it is expert figuring or not is a matter later to be determined.

Senate May Kill Bonus Bill.

While the fate of the bonus bill is undecided the members of congress are figuring must take account of how much the bonus payments will amount to if the bill shall become a law, and how much tax reduction can be made and yet allow for the payments to the ex-soldiers.

Opinion on the fate of the bonus bill still is on the shifting sands. As has been said in Washington letters many times, the former service men have been certain that their cause had votes enough in the senate to negative the presidential veto of the measure. The leaders of the senate are on record as concurring in this belief of the ex-service men. Another change has come over the face of the situation, however, and now it is declared that the senate will sustain the President's veto, a veto which it generally is assumed is certain.

During the holiday season, of course, the majority of the members of congress have been absent from the capital, a good many of them having gone to their distant homes, but a certain number were compelled to remain here in order to work out the legislative program for the immediate future. It may be that congress will do nothing, but preparation for a do-nothing congress is just about as hard work as preparing for a do-something congress. Proposals for legislation must be given working attention, even if every measure seems to be doomed to failure.

A steel type measure is inclosed in the handle of a new pocket knife designed for the use of tailors in ripping seams.

INDIAN VALUED THE BUFFALO

That Animal Supplied the Red Man With Almost Everything That He Needed.

Gen. Richard Irving Dodge, United States army, in his work on the big game of America, says: "It is almost impossible for a civilized being to realize the value to the plains Indian of the buffalo. It furnished him with equipment—almost everything," reports the Detroit News.

"Every plains Indian family believed that the buffalo were produced in countless numbers in a country under ground; that every spring the surplus swarmed, like bees from a hive, out of the immense cavities opening in the region of the great Llano Estacado, or Staked Plain of Texas.

"In 1879 Stone Chief, a celebrated chief, assured me that he knew exactly where the caves were, though he had never seen them; that the 'Good God' had provided this means for the constant supply of food for the Indian; however recklessly the white man might slaughter, they could never exterminate them. When I last saw him the old man was beginning to waver in this belief, and feared that the 'Bad God' had shut the entrances and that his tribe must starve."

HIS TESTIMONIAL TO HOTEL

August Holiday Seeker Writes in Guest Book How His Stay Impressed Him.

In previous years Smith had always taken his holidays in May, but this year he decided to make a change and go away in August. As you can guess, even if you are not a habitual August holiday maker, the charges at the hotel were very high in comparison with what he was in the habit of paying in May, and the bill gave him rather a shock.

"I hope you have enjoyed your holiday here, sir," said the landlady on the day on which he was due to return home. "I hope you will write something in our visitors' book."

"What shall I write?" inquired Smith, rather at a loss.

"Oh, anything," said the landlady. "Your impression of your short stay here, for instance."

After a few minutes' thought Smith took up the pen and wrote:

"I came here for change and rest. The waiter took the change and the landlady took the rest."—Chicago News.

King of Rome.

The title king of Rome was bestowed at the time of his birth upon Napoleon Francois Charles Joseph, son of Napoleon I and Marie Louise. After the fall of Napoleon in 1814, the king of Rome was taken in charge by his grandfather, the emperor of Austria, and carefully educated as an Austrian prince. His title was changed to that of the duke of Reichstadt in 1818. He died at Schoenbrunn, near Vienna, July 22, 1832, in his twenty-second year. It is thought that this title was given in imitation of Charlemagne. If so, it was a blunder; Charlemagne was never "king of Rome," but he was "patrician of Rome." In the German empire the heir-apparent was "king of the Romans," not "king of Rome." This latter title was expressly conferred on the German kings, and sometimes on their heirs, by a coronation at Milan. The German title equivalent to "dauphin," or "prince of Wales," was king of the Romans."—Reader's Handbook (Brewer).

Laughter Benefits Children.

Laughter is beneficial and American children are better at it than English youngsters, Dr. C. W. Kimmins, Gilchrist lecturer at the University of London, said at a luncheon in New York. Doctor Kimmins remarked that children in this country have the advantage of the Mark Twain and Bret Harte traditions and are more faithful readers of Dickens than English children. He said that his studies of London children show that they begin to laugh at the age of seven, when they begin to sense superiority over some of their companions, and improve until eleven, but that from eleven to thirteen there is no development of the sense of humor.

Rainfall in America.

A vivid picture of the amount of rain that falls upon the United States is given by a Washington scientist. It is equivalent, he states, to ten Mississippi rivers flowing constantly. Otherwise measured, it equals thirty inches of water for the entire area, making a total volume of 152,000,000,000,000 cubic feet. But this is only half the amount that would be necessary to maintain the full productivity of the soil of the whole country. One-third of this amount runs down to the sea and rivers. The problem for engineers to solve is the utilization to the utmost of the supply that nature furnishes.

Wise Judge.

"I hear you were judge at a baby show," snorted Huffy's friend Cuthbert.

"I was," admitted Huffy. "If I have heard you say once, I have heard you say fifty times that all babies look alike to you," said Cuthbert.

"They do." "Then how could you tell which was the prettiest baby?" Huffy rolled a cigarette with one hand and then answered: "I judged by the mothers."

Burns Healed Without Leaving A Scar

My sister was burned last winter when putting coal oil on a deadened fire and the flames burst into her face. We used nothing but San Cura and didn't even have a physician and in almost an incredible short time her face was perfectly healed without a scar. It is the finest thing for burns that I have ever seen. Have also used it for other things. Just lately an infected toe and immediately it was healed—Hattie S. Pitts, 18 Iowa Circle Washington, D. ### Meisen, a City of Porcelain.

Of all the quantity beautiful cities of Germany, Meisen on the Elbe, pride of Saxony, occupies a unique place of its own, being built almost entirely of porcelain. In 1740 the first royal porcelain factory was established on the hilltops overlooking the Elbe. In the fifty years that immediately preceded the World war the municipality and individual wealthy citizens were able out of their accumulated wealth to substitute porcelain for brick and stone in the construction of buildings so that now one-half of the homes, together with several factories and public edifices, are constructed almost entirely of this translucent and very expensive material.

JUSTICE SOUGHT FOR ARMY MEN

WAR DEPARTMENT INTENDS TO ASK PROPER RANK ON RE-TIRED LIST FOR THEM.

By EDWARD B. CLARK

Washington.—It is the known intention of the War department to recommend to the chairman of the military affairs committee of the two houses of congress that two bills be prepared which shall correct certain injustices of the war-time period and give proper rank on the retired list of the army to certain general officers who exercised commands, or who did work, the assignment to which should have carried promotion with it.

It is believed that it was the intention of the War department to do this thing a long time ago, but seemingly it felt that nothing that had an army complexion to it would be given consideration by congress or sanction by the people. "Everybody is sick of the army, navy and war," seemed to be the feeling.

Recently a more kindly attitude toward the men who risked their lives to save their country has been manifest throughout the land. Today some of the organizations which have been attacking the services seemingly have come into a state of mind which enables them to look on men who are willing to make the sacrifice of their lives with something a little bit removed from scorn. It is literally true that a year and a half ago in Washington the attitude of some persons toward the armed services made it appear that they considered the uniform of their country a disgrace.

Some of Those to Be Promoted.

If the military committees of the house and senate shall agree to the suggestion of the War department, it is believed that the list of those who will receive promotion on the retired list will contain these names: Maj. Gen. Hunter A. Liggett, Maj. Gen. Robert L. Bullard, Maj. Gen. Joseph T. Dickman, Maj. Gen. Enoch H. Crowder, Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood, and Col. Lloyd M. Brett and Wilds P. Richardson.

Undoubtedly there will be some others, but these are the names of soldiers who, it is known, deserve promotion and will get it if the War department can succeed in getting congress to do its duty in the case. Liggett, Bullard and Dickman successively commanded corps and armies in France. The command of a corps ought to carry with it the rank of lieutenant general. Such temporary rank was given to Liggett and Bullard, but it never was given to Dickman and no army man or civilian who knew the circumstances in the case ever understood why he was denied promotion, for his fighting work was just as strenuous as that of one of the others named and more strenuous than that of yet another.

These three soldiers, as has been said, not only commanded corps in France, but later armies. An army command is supposed to carry with it the rank of general. Dickman, as a major general, commanded a corps at St. Mihiel and another in the Argonne which fought its way through to Sedan, and later he commanded the first army of occupation in Germany.

Cases of Crowder and Wood.

Major General Crowder, who is now Uncle Sam's ambassador to Cuba, was the man who put the draft through without friction, a work which has been commended not only by this government but by every other civilized government on earth. Crowder, prior to this time, has been recommended for a lieutenant general's rank. He, like the others who have been named, is now on the retired list.

Everybody knows how the War department treated Gen. Leonard Wood during the war. He trained two of the best divisions that Uncle Sam sent overseas, and he suffered the indignity and the injustice of being ordered back from the ship, on which he was to set sail with his division, to train another division in this country.

Col. Wilds P. Richardson, who was a brigadier general in France, and who did fighting and administrative work of the highest order at Archangel, Russia, to which post he had been ordered at a time when things were delicately dangerous with the American forces in that section, was retired as a colonel. He has the Distinguished Service Medal and received all kinds of praise for what he had done as a brigadier general, and yet the rank on the retired list was denied him.

Col. Lloyd M. Brett was a fighting brigadier general in France. His record was one of the finest to go on the books of American achievement on the other side. He went back to the rank of colonel and colonel he is today. Everybody who knew Brett's record was astounded at the action in his case.

Boy Scouts and the Church.

That the church is the frequent recipient of scout good turns is shown in the scores of reports which reach the National Boy Scout council. Among such good turns are: Conducting the aged, blind and crippled to and from services, leveling off the church ground, caring for the lawn and building, sewing up the carpets, mending hymn books, planting trees and shrubbery, distributing church papers, putting up church notices, recruiting Sunday school pupils, helping as ushers and at bazaars and socials, and making city-wide religious surveys.

CITY SUES STATE FOR LIQUOR FINES

Youngstown, Jan. 19.—Legal action is being taken to recover more than $75,000 in liquor fines that the city has paid the state in the last three years. The suit is being prepared today by William E. Lewis, first assistant law director. The litigation will be in the form of a cross petition in the state's suit to collect $50,000 which it claims is due from liquor fines assessed in municipal court.

The state's action filed some time ago contends that under the Crabbe act it is entitled to 50 per cent of the fines. The state objected to the city's practice of deducting 10 per cent of the fines for enforcement costs before splitting the fines.

Now Lewis in his answer will raise the question whether the state is entitled to any part of the fines. He will cite the act creating Youngstown's municipal court which gives the city all fines collected by that tribunal.

Rickenbacker

A CAR WORTHY OF ITS NAME

REMEMBER: RICKENBACKER TOLD YOU SO!

Just so you will fix the fact in your mind for future reference and guidance:

—so you will, in the future, value Rickenbacker's advice at its true worth, and heed our timely warnings;

—so you will, in short, come to realize that Rickenbacker engineering is as sound as it is progressive;

—and finally, so you will know that in selecting a Rickenbacker you are always getting a car that is at least a year in advance of the rank and file of cars in engineering improvements, in body styles, finish and appointments;

—to the end that your annual depreciation will be the minimum, and resale value of your car the maximum;

We are constrained to remind you that just six months ago, (July 1st, to be exact), Rickenbacker proclaimed to the world that, within a year, 4-Wheel Brakes would be universal.

Several makers openly took issue with us.

Not only was every effort made to discredit our assertion and discount the superiority of 4-Wheel Brakes, but to prove that Rickenbacker was wrong, both in pioneering this great improvement, and in taking such a definite stand on the subject.

We were certain, however, that future events would prove the accuracy of our assertion.

We knew we were right—and feared not to go ahead.

Only six months later—January 5th to 12th—the New York Automobile Show was a sensational vindication of the Rickenbacker policy.

In almost every exhibit in that great show was an endorsement of Rickenbacker judgment—frank recognition of Rickenbacker leadership.

The evidence was so conclusive as to leave no room for doubt—4-Wheel Brakes have conquered apathetic prejudice and active opposition.

Not only have they proven necessary, but actually indispensable for safe driving in present-day traffic conditions.

Informed buyers now insist—and will continue more than ever to insist—that all four wheels be equipped with first-class brakes.

Eventually this insistence will be for fully enclosed, internal expanding brakes, too.

33—over 50%—makers exhibited cars in which 4-Wheel Brakes were an outstanding feature.

This was in response to insistent demands of buyers as expressed through salesmen and dealers.

The buyers, having once experienced the greater safety and efficiency of this fundamental improvement, said "I want that!"

And when an American buyer demands, the maker has no option—he must comply.

Today, the buyer is repeating those words so often and so emphatically, every maker must accede—or pay the penalty.

"Has this car 4-Wheel Brakes?"

That was the first question you heard when you stopped at any exhibit in the Auto Show.

And the next question generally was, "Are they internal expanding brakes mechanically operated?"

But, several other innovations and improvements that were emphasized by several makers as new in this show—but which you saw in the first Rickenbacker Six—also indicated the impress of this product on the entire industry.

12 Cars now boast "vibrationless motors." And it is interesting to note the several expedients applied in efforts to emulate the results of Rickenbacker's "Tandem Fly Wheel."

9 Cars emphasized "deeper frames"—though none as yet, approaches the eight (8") inch dimensions of the Rickenbacker "Double Depth" frame.

6 Cars showed springs set nearer the ends of the rear axle—nearer the point of contact between tire and road. This is one of the features of Rickenbacker "Cradle" spring suspension.

There are several other points, however, that are still to be found only in this car.

6 Cars have "Air Cleaners" of one kind or another—in emulation of Rickenbacker's provision for "protecting the lungs of the motor."

Fully 75% of all makers now feature steel disc wheels—first announced as standard on the first Rickenbacker Six.

5 Cars feature ball bearings in steering spindles—all of these are much higher priced cars than Rickenbacker, by the way.

5 Cars show the commutator located above motor, away from dirt, water and oil. This also you first saw in the Rickenbacker Six.

And yet—while "imitation is the sincerest form of flattery," and we heartily acknowledge the implied compliment—

We cannot but derive still more satisfaction from the fact that, while each of several have emulated Rickenbacker in one or two features, none so far, has combined all those superiorities in one product as you find them in the Rickenbacker Six.

Of course, everyone looked to this exhibit to sound the keynote for next year.

Nor was any disappointed.

Rickenbacker ran true to form by setting a new standard of values with several refinements and the unprecedented equipment at the new price.

When you had visited this exhibit, the term "fully equipped" had acquired a new meaning.

For Rickenbacker showed, for the first time in the world's history, standard models at standard prices, so completely equipped as to leave the new owner "Nothing Else to Buy."

Rickenbacker models this year are equipped with all those safety devices and conveniences which the seasoned motorist considers essential, and for which, heretofore, you have paid extra.

Not only the customary speedometer, ammeter, voltmeter, pilot light, oil gauge and switch-lock on the instrument board;—

But also transmission lock, Folberth wind-shield cleaner, combination vanity and smoking case, motor meter, motor meter wings, motor meter lock, shock absorbers and bumpers, both front and rear.

The open models—Sport Phaeton and Sport Roadster—also have beveled plate-glass wind wings.

All models are equipped with drum tire-covers with lettered warning "4-Wheel Brakes," which is for the benefit of the man behind, and which never fails to give the Rickenbacker man right of way. This is Rickenbacker's interpretation of the term "fully equipped" as exemplified in these latest models.

Here is established not only a new standard of values, but a new code of business ethics.

For the first time, you saw an automobile in which the customer's needs and desires were considered paramount.

This is another Rickenbacker departure from former rules that will revolutionize sales practice.

"Nothing Else to Buy" is today the exclusive slogan of the Rickenbacker salesman—even as "4-Wheel Brakes" was his clarion cry six months ago.

Buyers will no longer accept as "fully equipped" a car that lacks any essential for ideal driving under any conditions of weather or traffic congestion.

Having seen the new Rickenbacker models; having yourself experienced the wonderful performance of the 4-Wheel Brakes, the luxury of a vibrationless motor, and the thrill of handling this car;—

Having seen what constitutes "complete equipment" according to the new Rickenbacker standard;—

And when you consider that all this is included in the new "delivered" price, you will be at a loss to understand how it is possible to produce so much for so little money.

We hope you will see all the others before you see the Rickenbacker—for only by direct comparison can you appreciate the amazing difference in quality, performance and value.

For, none other shows the same startling acceleration coupled with equally surprising deceleration.

None other possesses "vim, vigor and vitality" to compare with this world-famous Rickenbacker Six.

None other can perform so sensationally and yet prove as sturdy and durable in everyday hard service.

In those qualities that lend a thrill as well as luxury to motoring, this Rickenbacker Six is still supreme.

In advanced engineering, Rickenbacker is the outstanding leader. In style, the fashion plate. In Pride of Ownership—unique.

URGES MORE RIGID ASSESSMENT

Zangerle for Taxation Under the Uniform Rule.

WOULD CALL SPECIAL SESSION

Marketing to be the main theme at the annual meeting of Ohio Farm Federation—Thrift Week to be observed in every Ohio community. Labor to continue fight for old age pension act.

Columbus, Jan. 17.—In a paper prepared by John Zangerle, auditor of Cuyahoga county, and read before the Ohio Tax association, in session here, calling of a special session of the Ohio legislature was urged to provide for taxation under the uniform rule and to remove constitutional restrictions to adjustment of the state's taxation system and more rigid assessment of real estate.

Greater economy in public administration and a realization of the public that increased building activities means a corresponding increase in taxes, also were cited as necessary for a cure of the "acute disease" now afflicting taxpayers, but it was indicated that legislative action and general reassessment were the first and most important steps to taxation revision.

Leon C. James of the land and taxation department of the New York Central lines criticized in a measure the system employed by Ohio in taxing railroad properties without informing the companies of the methods used in arriving at the amount of taxes assessed.

The Ohio research bureau, an organization composed of representatives of every organization and industry in Ohio, with the exception of labor, was formed here for the purpose of studying the state government, especially taxation and legislation, and making public facts with no recommendations. While labor is not represented, it has been invited and is said to be considering sending representatives.

The meeting was called by State Senators Belton of Cleveland and Birch of Akron. A board of trustees was selected. It will meet in Cleveland Jan. 31 to perfect organization.

It is officially announced that marketing will be the main theme at this year's annual meeting of the Ohio Farm Federation on Feb. 4-5, at Ohio State university. Two grangers will be on the program the first day. This will be the opening of the program for Farmers' week, which has become so popular, and as usual a large attendance is expected.

L. B. Palmer, state president, will deliver the address of welcome, and H. A. Caton, master of all Ohio granges, and L. J. Taber of Barnesville, master of the national grange, will bring greetings from those bodies to the farm bureau. O. E. Bradtke of Xenia, national president, and Gray Silver, Washington representative, will speak on the first afternoon program. In the evening M. D. Lincoln, executive secretary of the Ohio organization, will tell of co-operative marketing in Europe, as he saw it while abroad recently.

On Tuesday, Feb. 5, some well known men and women are programmed: Mrs. H. W. Lawrence of Orrville; A. S. Thomas and E. H. Cunningham, Ohio bankers; J. C. Watson, taxation expert of the Illinois Agricultural association, and W. S. Badard, who, as attorney for the Ohio farm bureau, will discuss the state's new co-operative marketing law.

There will be round table discussions on organization, home and community programs, which will be of great interest to all farmers and their families. Plans will be discussed which will give suggestions of the best way to bring farmers together, and to have a rural community where the best interests of all will be considered.

Commodity marketing discussions will permeate the subjects programmed in the two-day session, which will close on Tuesday night, Feb. 5. A general business meeting will be held at the close, and officers for 1934 will be elected.

Three hundred lectures, demonstrations, addresses and recreation periods, five state shows of agricultural products, five conferences for those specially interested in special lines of farming or home making, and state-wide conferences for all farming people interested in framing a future plan for Ohio agriculture, are the big things comprising the program of Farmers' Week at the State university, Feb. 4-5.

These are the names of 150 speakers on the program, and all of them are men and women of known authority on agricultural subjects. All sessions are free to the public, and the railroad has granted a rate much lower than the regular fare to Ohio.

The program is said to differ from that of previous years in that it adheres to the theme—co-operative agriculture—which means there will be advocated this co-operation which begins with what the market wants, and follows on through co-operative marketing of these products. Special effort has been made this year to emphasize farming as a life as well as a business, by emphasizing the problems of the farm home.

Thrift Week, Jan. 17 to 23, is to be observed in practically every community in Ohio this year, according to John F. Fergus, Columbus, chairman of the Ohio Thrift Week committee. Activities will center mostly around local financial institutions, especially those catering to home financing, according to Mr. Fergus.

More than 100 speakers will start out today to cover the state, speaking before various chambers of commerce, civic organizations and luncheon clubs. Among the speakers are Cyrus Loecher, head of the department of commerce of Ohio, and J. W. Tannehill, state superintendent of building and loan institutions.

Special recognition is to be given to "Own Your Home Day," Jan. 22. According to building and loan officials, Ohioans will build more homes during 1934 than during 1933. If sufficient funds are available to meet the demand for home loans, speakers will urge the people to put their money into local financial institutions in order to make 1934 a prosperous year.

According to Thomas J. Donnelly, secretary of the Ohio State Federation of Labor, Ohio labor will fight until an old age pension law is on the state's statute books. He pointed out that, with only organized labor and one fraternal organization fighting for the proposal, it polled 400,000 favorable votes at the last election.

"We made this excellent showing," Donnelly said, "despite the fact that chambers of commerce, aided and abetted by the so-called farm groups, sent out paid proselyters to attack labor for having the presumption to initiate such a proposal; despite the fact that the churches, dominated by their millionaire laymen, recanted from their former attitude and refused to help us. At that the proposal carried in two counties, while the Taft bill, supported by every chamber of commerce and municipal and educational organization failed to carry a county."

Ohio now has the best workmen's compensation law in the United States, Donnelly declared.

Claude Meeker, Columbus broker, may enter the race for the Democratic nomination for United States senator. A Meeker boom was started following the Jackson day banquet, at which Mr. Meeker presided. A number of leading Democrats of the state are said to have been approached about it and Meeker's friends say they were found favorably inclined.

Democratic leaders are known to have been casting about for a successful business man to make the race in 1936 against Senator Willis. While Meeker has been engaged actively in business for years in Columbus, he is not entirely unknown politically in the state and nation. He served as secretary to former Governor James E. Campbell and was United States consul to England under former President Grover Cleveland. In addition to this he has been one of the wheel horses in arranging inauguration programs for every Democratic governor elected in Ohio since the Civil war.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace has under consideration a request that Highway No. 2, in Ohio, be named the "Sherman-Sheridan" highway. This road extends from Cincinnati through Wilmington, Washington C. H., Circleville, Lancaster, Rushville and Somerset to Zanesville, where it intersects the national highway.

Writing to Secretary Wallace, Senator Fess says: "This suggestion arises out of the fact that the Sherman, General and Senator John, were born in Lancaster and spent their early manhood there, and that Phil Sheridan lived at Somerset. This route passes through a very historic section of the state and follows the line of the old Zane trace from Zanesville to Lancaster."

The suggestion came to Senator Fess from J. C. Elder of Rushville, O. In closing his letter to Secretary Wallace, Senator Fess says: "I think his suggestion is a very good one, and while I do not have any idea whether you would be interested in the suggestion or not, may I express the hope that it may appeal to you in case it is within the province of your department?"

Representative Mel G. Underwood of the Eleventh Ohio district has just completed the list of his first appointments to West Point Military academy. Raymond P. Rader of Circleville, a student of Ohio State university, is named as principal. R. Mc. Rochester of Logan, who attends Ohio university at Athens, has been selected as first alternate, and Frank Lowe of Circleville as second alternate. Mr. Underwood announced he had a difficult time securing a list of applicants, as West Point nominations are no longer sought as in former days.

Successful applicants who took the state bar examination in December have been announced at the office of the clerk of the supreme court. Of a total of 332 who took the examination 248 passed. All will be sworn in at the supreme court at 1 o'clock Jan. 25. Eighty-four failed to get a passing grade.

Ex-Soldiers Column

Conducted By American Legion Executive Committee

ADJUSTED COMPENSATION

A debt is owing the ex-soldier and ex-soldier.

1—The war was not won by the uniformed services alone. Capital and labor performed services universally recognized to be as patriotic and necessary to victory as the service of soldiers. Men were legally exempt from military duty on that assumption, and were assured that they rendered the greater service to their country by remaining apart from the armed forces as members of the great industrial army which supported the fighting forces.

2—Equal service was not equally rewarded. There was a great discrepancy in pay between a man in uniform and the civilian war worker and a contractor between the members of the fighting forces and those of the industrial forces. The disproportionate payment—the cost of the war by several billion dollars. To pay this cost a national debt has been incurred.

3—The returned soldier is bearing his share of the burden of paying off this debt, which was contracted for the prosecution of a war which yielded enormous sums in increased wages and profits those who stayed at home, but imposed a distinct economic handicap on the soldier.

4—The soldier asks no reward for his services while in uniform. But when turning home, he asks that, in providing for himself and his family and in bearing his share of the national debt, he be given economic equality with the man who stayed at home. The soldier has not had this equality because of the superior economic position obtained during the war by those who did not go to war, and because they did not go. The soldier's handicap is obvious.

5—Therefore a debt is owing and some adjustment of compensation or equalization of economic position is due the soldier to balance the scale in the daily economic struggle between him and his competitor who did not go to war, and by reason of that fact was able to improve his economic position at the expense of those who did fight.

This column is your column and if you do not agree with what is written here write your side of the matter and we will print it in an early issue. Or if you have some thing to say concerning the ex-soldier man in anyway we will be glad to print it. Because the legion executive committee is running this column does not keep your ideas out even if they are different from ours. We will not promise to agree but we may tell you what we think on the same subject. The following is a letter from the National Commander of the American Legion. The Charles H. Carey post is going to take up this same idea at the meeting of the executive committee Monday evening. If there are any veterans who would like to go to the school for scoutmasters being held at the Chamber of Commerce rooms Lee Chamberlain will be glad to have them come.

Are You a Will Austin?

When I was seven years old my teacher once asked me who of a name I would like to be. I said I would like to be Will Austin. The teacher probably took it for granted that Will Austin was a poet. As a matter of fact he was a farm hand—just a big, good natured, green-headed farm hand. He had been mighty kind to me and I wanted to be like Will Austin because he had been so kind.

I was a hero-worshiper. Will Austin was my particular hero. Every boy has his own Will Austin. The boy's instinct is naturally good; he chooses a hero for the hero's virtue. But the instinct, perhaps, is founded on environment. If the boy's most noteworthy adult acquaintance happens to be a bad man, so much the worse for the boy.

Today the average boy tries to find his heroes ready-picked by the World War. The veteran, that's the hero. The American Legion—that's the symbol of heroism. The boy finds a hero ready-made in any member of the legion. And a good Legionnaire—the fighting-man type—is worth emulating.

The boys are organized, like the legion. They have an American and American citizenship. The boy Scout troops offer an outlet to boyish enthusiasm and an inspiration to better Americanism, and in their scoutmasters they will find all the essentials—experience in the craft, scout movement, leadership and the conviction that their service to America will never end.

The Legion has sponsored the Boy Scout movement for years. It has encouraged the organization of Boy Scout troops and has adopted troops of its own. It has given thousands of scoutmasters to the movement. But more help is needed. In New York city today an attempt is being made to enroll a thousand scoutmasters. What more worthy task can a Legionnaire undertake than this? A Legionnaire should be the leader of a scout troop, the instructor of the boys, the art of peace and the model of the boys in their patriotic aspirations. The Boy Scout movement needs Will Austins. Let's supply them from the ranks of the legion.

JOHN R. QUINN

will play following the Girls game. The Stark county team arrived at 2 p. m. and will open up with a little practice before the game. Friday night the Columbiana Girls defeated the East Liverpool Girls 21 to 11 while the Massillon team was idle. Two fine games are assured for tonight. Don Scullion will referee with Joe Kelly as umpire.

THE NEWS RADIO QUESTION BOX

Answers furnished by John Meyer, radio builder, of Woodland ave.

Q—I have a five tube neutrodyne. Will you tell me what parts I need to make the set regenerative and with double aerial input? I want to make it more selective and I want the regenerative feature. J. A. K.

A—I am sure the inventor of the neutrodyne would view in great sorrow if he could read your letter. His idea all of the time has been to eliminate regeneration, as the name itself indicates. The set works at its best efficiency only when feedback between the tubes has been completely neutralized. When this is done the set tunes very sharply. You could substitute a variocoupler for the first neutrodyne, but this would replace the first dial with three, making in all five tuning controls. It would be almost impossible to tune the set. To obtain regeneration—more than you can take care of—simply remove that neutralizing condenser.

Q—I have two WD-11 tubes which I bought about two months ago and have used these as amplifiers. The first month they had plenty of volume and I could hear the music all over the house. Now they are very weak and can hardly be heard at all. These are genuine tubes. Is there any way I can get back the volume? P. L. H.

A—The firms which are repairing tubes are working under the handicap that they cannot get the filament material used in the original tubes. The filament used in the WD-11 has a chemical coating which was developed after years of laboratory study and it is not surprising that a makeshift filament should not last as long. The WD-11 filament should operate at full efficiency for about 1,000 hours. There is no way to get back your lost volume.

Another Reason Why—

The Buick Third Member

Buick cars drive through a third member, not the springs. The springs only support the body and assure easy riding. A Buick rear spring accidentally broken cannot misalign the axle and prevent driving the car. The Buick axle remains in fixed position. Consequently the adjustment of Buick four-wheel brakes is not affected by the deflection of the springs.

When better automobiles are built Buick will build them

BRINGING UP FATHER

TWO COUNTY ROADS IN STATE LETTING

Proposals will be asked for by the State Highway department at the first road letting of this year, which is scheduled for Feb. 15, for the improvement of two sections of highways in Columbiana county.

The department will ask tenders for the grading and surfacing of the Rogers-Middleton rd. in Fairfield and Exton townships as has been proposed by the trustees of these two townships and the county commissioners, the surfacing to be of other character of bituminous macadam.

Proposals for the surfacing of that section of the East Liverpool-Youngstown rd. in Liverpool township also will be advertised, the State Highway department to ask for bids on a bituminous macadam top, which is the same character of surfacing material used on several roads in the vicinity of Salem.

Courts Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk, who has returned from a three-day visit in Columbus, is of the opinion that the Highway department will insist that the two jobs be prepared at the earliest moment.

EXPERT EXPLAINS THE SCHICK TEST

Columbus, Jan. 19.—No child in Ohio need die of diphtheria, declares Dr. Frank G. Boardman, chief of the division of communicable diseases, state department of health.

"Not confining our fight against diphtheria to a mere slogan, however true, the state department of health is trying to cover the entire state by Schick testing children."

"The Schick test is a simple and harmless method of determining whether a child is susceptible to diphtheria. More than 50,000 Ohio children have been tested without a single mishap. There is no pain."

"A very shallow injection of a microscopic portion of serum is made in the outer skin of the wrist. If after three days a spot the size of a coffee bean appears, the subject is susceptible to diphtheria. If nothing appears he is practically immune."

Goshen's Delegates Report Ohio Grange Meeting At Toledo

A report of the recent state grange meeting at Toledo was given by Mr. and Mrs. P. P. Crouse at a session of Goshen grange Friday evening at the hall, northwest of Salem.

Current events were discussed generally and at roll call the members responded by telling of one good resolution made for this year.

Elmer Minser, the purchasing agent, conducted a coffee contest. The first prize, won by Mrs. M. P. Stratton, was a pound of first grade coffee, while a pound of second grade coffee was given Frank H. Townsend, winner of the second honors.

An open meeting of the grange will be held Friday evening, Jan. 25, at which time new curtains for the stage will be presented. A program will be given.

VISIBILITY A LARGE FACTOR

Dusty or Misty Atmosphere Means a Great Deal in Aviation and Navigation.

Visibility is a large factor in air flight and in various surface operations, especially navigation. A knowledge of conditions governing visibility is therefore of considerable importance. Dustiness or mistiness may be due to incomplete combustion of coal or other fuels, seen as smoke at lower levels. Some dust particles come from volcanoes. Some, it is thought, may come from interplanetary spaces. The weather bureau of the United States Department of Agriculture was provided with an instrument for measuring atmospheric dust in May, 1922. A dust count has been taken daily during the last year. The dust counter used collects the dust from a known volume of air and deposits it on a small and very thin glass disk, where by means of a powerful microscope the particles can be counted and their character determined. Tests have shown about 90 dust particles a cubic centimeter on a very clear, dry day, and as high as 933 a cubic centimeter on one day of limited visibility, but with the same dry condition of the air, which prevailed on the former occasion.

Things to Know About Our Service

The Meter is a Measure

—an accurate measuring instrument. Scales measure weight. A yard stick measures length and breadth. The electric meter measures and registers the amount of current consumed.

Of course you control, absolutely, this meter registration, just as you control the amount of coal burned in your furnace or the number of gallons of gasoline supplied to your car. You can be thrifty or extravagant in the use of any commodity.

The electric wires carrying current to your lights and appliances pass through the meter and only the current actually consumed can possibly be registered. Meters are even more accurate than watches.

Your bill, then, is just a simple multiplication of the meter registration by the unit price of electricity. READ YOUR OWN METER! Check up on your bills.

Drop into our office and get a folder giving simple directions for meter reading. Begin this month to read your own meter.
